“ Dear Alice and family, May the class of '64 send their sincerest condolences on the passing of Fred. This is a shock! Even though I knew he had some health issues, I didn't know they were that bad. We, that were at the party, are so grateful to have been able to spend that precious time with him the end of Sept. at our 70th Birthday Bash - so thankful that he got to come one last time. Please stay in touch Alice, you were/are a part of our group too. Judy Allison Fellure /and the class of '64

“ I knew Fred since the eighth grade. He was a good friend, a reliable one, and a person who was always positive. When we played basketball together, even if the other team was far ahead, he always maintained optimism and insisted that we try our best. He was quiet and deep. Some of his responses and interpretations of people and of things going on around him were amazing. Not only amazing, but inspirational! He believed in the goodness within people, and always understood and forgave if they were less than perfect. His beliefs and his values his character will continue to live within those of us who knew him. RIP, Fred!

“ Fred and I were cousins. My younger brother Jim and I enjoyed many days playing with him and his younger brother Alan. He was always a kind soul. I know he's back in Frank and Idabelle's arms now. They were special people as well. Godspeed Fred.

“ And now - I look back and remember Fred. When we were young we were neighbors and friends. We were classmates throughout elementary school to high school. I only saw him once after high school and then at the one high school reunion I attended. What I will remember is that knowing Fred was a part of my entire life and now there is a little empty space in my heart that he has filled all these years. Rest in heaven my dear friend - until we meet again. My prayers for peace and comfort go out to his friends and family.

“ Please accept my condolences. The Bible offers much comfort, such as at Jeremiah 29:11, 'For I well know the thoughts that I am thinking toward you,' declares God, thoughts of peace, and not of calamity, to give you a future and a hope.'How comforting to know God thinks about us in a peaceful way and has a future planned for us.Robert
