“ The best memory I have of George is from the fifth grade we were caught laughing during mass and sister Bridgett took us out and beat both our asses and I really don't think George ever got over it because we talked and laughed about for over forty years! Wherever he is I hope he don't run into sister Bridgett!.... I will miss you my friend rip.... Your friend jeff cline

“ George and I met via a TV show The Big Blue Marble back in the '70's. We both signed up through their Pen Pals program except neither of us were given the others information. The person who introduced us was a mutual Pen Pal we both had who lived in Hong Kong. I assume that person found out that we were both from Ohio but I was actually living in Washington state. George and I continued to correspond by mail. When I would visit Ohio we would actually talk on the phone because there were no long distance charges. In 1987 we finally met face to face. We stayed in touch the next couple of years. I moved to Ohio in '88 we stayed in contact on/off but lost touch in '89. About 4 years ago I happened to search his name on Facebook and sent a message to him. Time passed I heard nothing, out of the blue I got a response and sure enough it was him. We tried to meet up for coffee over the past 3 years when I travel through southern Ohio just never panned out. My last conversation with him was on December 22nd and it was brief. I will miss our conversations even though mostly written all these years. RIP buddy enjoy your heavenly after life fishing, hunting and making people laugh. 48 years of friendship!
