“ Jeff was a good guy I was one of his nurses here at Four Winds. I remember when Jeff first came in he was so stubborn he didn't like to wait on staff to get get up so he would try it himself, you never told him he couldn't do something because he would do it anyway. He will be missed here by our staff he was family: Fly high Jeff.

I knew Jeff as Mac. I don't think I learned his real name for a few months. He was the guy we called when our tools broke or our mowers stopped running. He could fix almost anything and if he couldn't fix it he knew who could. He ALWAYS had a cold beer and a smile for anyone who stopped by. He took me in when I was homeless and then let me stay in his house once he was incapacitated by sickness. There aren't sufficient words for how much I'm gonna miss this guy. Hopefully he's doing some good diving in the afterlife
